PENPOL NEWSLETTER

It is a genuine joy to be back!
It has been wonderful to catch up with the children, staff and parents and welcome you all back after the half term.

It has already been an incredibly busy week as children launch into their learning with lots of fantastic experiences. Please see the photos below.

It is also the half-term when children become very settled in their classes and their progress rockets!

I have been doing lots of school tours, and it has been so wonderful to see how calm the school feels. The children wanted to show me their writing, art and maths learning; so proud of what they had created.

All the Christmas dates will be released by next week, so you'll have plenty of notice for future events.
